The Absurdities of Fashion.

Old Mr. Thistlepod climed up the broad stairway of marble and rosewood leading to the high-backed, Queen-Anne editorial rooms of The Hawkeye, yesterday morning. His heavy tread fell noiselessly upon the Pompadour velvet carpets, and as he sank into a costly es-critoire the perfumed light fell through the stained glass tant mieux at the facade of the managing editor's ebranlement de cuir, touched the o'd man's face with a softened overmoulou, that seemed like an echo from the stately renaissance that looked down upon the walls. Carefully moving the elegant Louis Quinze passe-partout where the old man could not tip it over with his feet, if after his usual habit he should choose to rest them on the carved mauvis sujet, the editor asked the honest tiller of the soil how was crops in the Flint River coun-

"Crops?" echoed the old man. "Well now I want to tell you about crops. Corn's all right, an' oats was better'n usual an' wheat just boomed, but you've got a crop of fools in Burlington that'll just lay over any other green thing that ever drawed the cows in the State of

"Why, the town's full of 'em," shouted Mr. Thistlepod, who labors under the impression that he can't be heard unless he talks very loud.

"How can you tell they're fools?"

"By their clothes," waved the old man, and the society editor slid as far as he could under the table and then laid his face flat on his arm in order to write more easily. "By their clothes," re-peated the sturdy old agriculturist. "'Y gaul, if a boy of mine 'uz to dress like the young fellers I see in this town, I'd beat some sense into him with a neckyoke. Why it's redik'lus; I tell ye, it's redik'lus. I see a young chap down in the countin'-room with a pair o' trousers on him tighter'n candle molds-I hope to die 'f I didn't think he'd stuck his laigs into a couple o' snake skins. 'N' his coat-by jockies, it wasn't hardly long enough to cover his suspenders; it wasn't, I swanny. 'N' it fit him clos-ter than his undershirt, and his shirt-collar sawed his years every time he turned his head, 'n' he wore his watch chain outside his coat. An' he wore a flat hat, with a round top, about as big as a cooky. An' his shoes! P'inted, do ye know, p'inted like toothpicks, 'n' they was long as pickaxes. To see him skippin' around in that git up, lookin' more like a monkey nor a white man, 'y gaul, it made me mad, 'n' I swan I wanted to lick him. I declare I did. They's no sense in a Christian man makin' such an outlandish spectacle of himself, an' if I ever ketch my boy dressed up in any such a dog-goned re-dik'lus, absurd, disgustin' fashion, I'll be gaul swizzled if I—hello, Jasper, are ye waitin' for me?"

And saying good-by, Mr. Thistlepod accompanied his son down stairs to the wagon. As the old man turned to go, he did not in the least degree resemble the "young feller" down in the countingroom. The big felt hat he wore had originally been of some color, but that was years ago. The blue merino band sewed on with black thread was too loose, and a twine string tied tightly loose, and a twine string tied tightly around it caused the hat to bulge out above the band like the dome of a mosque. The hickory shirt fastened at the collar in severe simplicity with a big horn button, seorned a collar of any kind. The roomy brown vest had four white bone buttons and a black shard pin, and through the irregular reticulations of its much absoled back the solitary assender showed through, recolutely chaging to a button off and a neil forward. The baggy blue trousers swelled out below the flamping vest into swelled out below the flamping vest into an ample dome, strangely creased and fearfully wrinkled, breaking, as the old man walked, into awful billowy bulges and humps, while one long, deep, diagonal crease showed where the trusty suspender, hauled taut from port to starboard, held everything fast on the quarter. Further down they bagged in great curving billows at the knees and wrinkled behind; they were brief, and came to an untimely end about four inches before they reached the top of the shoe, and they ended abruptly; same size all the way down and sawed square off across the ends. The shoes were not exactly pointed at the toes, and when the old man's feet were not in them you could't bet which way the shoes were pointed. Jasper was attired in like manner as his father, only being a much taller man his trousers were correspondingly shorter. As they passed through the æsthetic decorations of the countingroom, the man in the lean pants laughed sneeringly, and Mr. Thistlepod laughed tauntingly. The managing editor sank back in his ermine cushioned fleur de

"I am afraid," he sighed, wearily, "those two people are laughing at each other's clothes."—Burlington Hawkeye.

A Curious Fire-Ball.

At about ten minutes before twelve o'clock last night the people of "lower town" were disturbed by a most terrific report (which was heard throughout the greater portion of the city), accom-panied with a bright, sulphuric light which illuminated the entire surroundings for quite a space of time. Many people sprang from their beds, supposing that a severe thunder-storm had burst upon them; others thought that a boiler had exploded; and not a few attributed the deafening report to the first crash of "the wreck of matter and the crush of worlds;" but up in rushing to their doors and windows beheld one of the most calm and beautiful moonlight nights ever witnessed. The mystery was, however, soon solved by the statement of certain persons employed in and about the mills in that part of the city. They say that a large ball of fire fell into Muskegon Lake, seemingly striking its surface 300 or 400 feet from the shore. A young gentleman known as James Fisk felt the shock perceptibly, and Mr. Archibald Lee was "shaken up" by it. Both of these parties were on Western avenue at the time. Messrs. Frank Johnson, Levi Beardsley, Charles C. Moulton and Fred Miller, all of whom lodge on Western avenue, state that the building in which they have rooms was shaken by the explosion. Mr. Hugh Leonard, who had just retired to his room on Western avenue, states as follows: "I saw the glare, and it seemed as though the entire light was concentrated in my room. At first it appeared as though my window curtains were wrapped in flames." Where the aerolite struck the water there was great commotion, "as though a ton of solid substance had fallen into it from a great height." It is currently believed that a great meteoric stone fell, and it may be well for steamers and sailing vessels to be guarded for the present while passing the point where the stone is supposed to have struck. This is represented as being from three hundred to four hundred feet from the shore that fines the lake between White & Swan's and the "Bedler" mills. There was not and the "Bedler" mills. There was not the least sign of a cloud in the sky at the time, the night being one of the most brilliant remembered. Small boats will prospect near the spot where the stone is supposed to have struck the surface of the water. This metuoselogical phe-nomenon is town talk to day, particu-larly among the inhabitants of "lower town."—Muskegon (Mich.) Chronicle.

THE Western Tobacco Journal says: Since the advent of cool weather house burn and pole rot has been checked, and with this kind of weather for a short time longer, the crop of White Burley and Seed Leaf (these being the only varieties which have been effected any way seriously by these diseases) will be so advanced that no further damage than was inflicted at the beginning of the curing season need be apprehended. For a time indications were that the crop would be badly damaged from these causes, but happily favorable weather and precautions taken by panters have "turned the tables." The outlook, therefore, is bright for the whole tobacco trade, and while prices may rule more favorably for manufacturers than they have in the past, yet we think that the increased production and improved quality will fully compensate growers for any decline from present ruling rates.

CAPT. Culbertson lives at Ashland. His agents there, and in that neighborhood took advantage of the bitter feeling of the people over the action of the state troops in resisting an attack by the mob, and intensifying it by every means, used it with effect against the Democratic candidate. This accounts for Culbertson's large vote in the mountain counties. Elsewhere the over confidence of the Democrats, and the use by the Republicans of a large amount of corruption money in every precinct of each county, overcame the usual Democratic majorities. A harder fight was made and more corrupt means was resorted to here by the Republicans to secure victory than in any other district in the state, and it is the only one in the commanwealth where they have been success-

THE Louisville Commercial admits the rascality of its party, backs down and, in the hope of saving the grand old organization from utter destruction, proposes to turn over a new leaf. Here is what it says.

The success of the campaign of 1884 is the hands of the present Republican majority in the National House of Representatives. What that body should do is to take the tax off tobacco, check stamps, proprietary stamps and bank deposits, and extend the bonded period for deposits, and extend the bonded period for whisky, make some necessary improvements in the tariff, to make it consistent throughout and reduce expenditure with an unsparing hand. It is an imposition on the people to keep paying the debt off at the rate of fifteen millions a month, and the revenues now applied to that should be cut off. If these things are done nothing will be left for the Democratic majority in the next House but to make fools of themselves, as Mr. Hendricks confesses they are most likely to do.

Applied on them. After ten years test in different cities in the state of Kentucky, Armstrong's Elastic Roof Paint is acknowledged superior to any other in use. It forms a heavy elastic body smooth and glossy; it will not crack or scale, dries quickly and will remain without repainting from 8 to 10 years. This paint will stop all leaks in tin or iron roofs and remain so for many years. It has been applied to many of the best buildings, both public and private, in this state, of which I have testimonials to show from gentlemen whose standing in society and business qualifications makes their opinion and knowledge of its worth, after having tried it for years on their roofs, which of itself is the best of guarantees of its useful and valuable worth to all who have or metal roofs. If you have a leaky or a worn Applied on them. After ten years test in difor metal roofs. If you have a leaky or a worn out roof that has decayed from neglect of being properly covered with paint, and it leaks and your tinner has failed to stop the leaks, give my paint a trial, and if I do not stop the leaks entirely there will be no charge made.

I will remain in this city a few days with the view of introducing my Elastic Paint, of which I am the inventor and manufacturer and sole owner. I manufacture but the two kinds, the

THE Ashland war has inspired a military spirit throughout the State. A company of forty-five men has been raised at Lawrenceburg; another one is being enrolled at Wincbester which thirty unmarried men, all six feet high, have enlisted; and Frankfort is enrolling a battery of artillery.

THE Enquirer says:

The friends of Blaine, or some of them, say that behind the scenes Blaine has pulled the wires which has brought down the Republi-can tabernacle. The men who are rebuked by the defeat are men who have defeated his presidential nomination in two national conventions. This, no doubt, is a wise deduction in the light of facts; but the men thus rebuked have good memories, and would and could destroy Blaine should he ever be nominated.

There has been a good deal of nypocrisy and cant among Massachusetts statesmen which it is thought bluff Ben Butler will unmask. His election means the retirement from public life of Geo. Rumors that Butler has designs on the presidency as an independent workingman's candidate also find believers; and as nothing is improbable in Butler's political course, he may likewise bid for the Democratic nomination.

Lemons.

The following concise account of the properties and uses of the lemon is taken from an exchange:

The lemon is a native of Asia, although it is cultivated in Italy, Portugal, and in the south of France. In Europe, however, it seldom exceeds the dimensions of the smallest tree, while its native state is to grow over ninety feet in height.

Every part of this tree is valuable in medicine, though we rearly employ any of it but its fruit, that is the lemon

And every one knows how to employ this, as in lemonade: To squeeze the juice into cold water, this is the shortest way, or to cut into slices and let soak in cold water; or to cut into slices and then boil it; either way is good. Lemonade is one of the best and safest drinks for any person, whether in health or out. It is suitable in all stomach diseases, is excellent in sickness-in cases of jaundice, gravel, liver com-plaint, inflammation of the bowels and

It is a specific against worms and skin complaints. The pippins crushed may also be used with water and sugar as a drink. Lemon juice is the best anti-scorbatic remedy known. It not only cures the disease, but prevents it. Sailors make a daily use of it for this purpose. A physician suggests rubbing of the gums daily with lemon juice to keep them in a healthy condition.

The hands are kept clean, white, soft and supple by the daily use of lemon instead of soap. It also prevents chilblains. Lemon is used in intermittent fevers, mixed with strong, hot black tea or coffee, without sugar. Neuralgia may be cured by rubbing the part affected with a lemon. It is valuable to cure warts and to kill dandruff on the head. In fact its uses are manifold, and the more we employ it externally the better we shall find ourselves. Natural remedies are the best, and nature is our best doctor, if we would only listen to it. Decidedly, rub your hands, head, and gums with it, and drink lemonade in preference to all other liquids. Another use to which they may be put is the flavoring of strawberries. We are in the habit of eating strawberries with cream, juice of an orange, etc. Now the way to make them harmless is to cover them with a large allowance of powdered sugar, and then squeeze over them one, two or three lemons according to the quantity. The lemon juice brings out the strawberry flavor better than anything else, and its acid-ity is counteracted by the large quantity of sugar. The lemon juice should be in the same proportion as the cream would be in the piace of which it is used.

Woolen Machinery.

The statistician makes known on the authority of good judges that a woolen mill requires thorough renewal every double decade. There are altogether nine thousand sets of woolen machinery in the country. The number worn out and replaced every year is estimated at four hundred and fifty sets. This in-eludes thirteen hundred or more cards and spinning mules, with ten to fifteen thousand looms. The price of mules varies from seven hundred and fifty to nine hundred dollars, according to the number of spindles. To replace the mules worn out every year the sum of nearly one million two hundred and fifty thousand dollars is expended. The average durability of the machinery of a mill is about twenty years. The durability of different pieces of machinery varies. A set of cards used carefully may last half of a century. The cloth-ing on them may be renewed every five years. Leoms are long lived. They may continue in use fifty years, but generally twenty years' service is about as much as they can render. The mules' wrenage time of curativity is affect years. A set of cards comprises generally three to four separate carding machines. In manufacturing different styles of workers there are thirty-five or forty different processes, and nearly every process calls into use a different kind of machine.—Providence Journal kind of machine .- Providence Journal.

Kendall's Spavin Cure.

The Most Successful Remedy ever discovered, as it is certain it its effects and does not blister. READ PROF BELOW.

From Rev P. N. GRANGER.

Presiding Elder of the St. Albans District. St. ALBANS, Vt., Jan., 20, 1880.

ST. ALBANS, VT., Jan., 20, 1880.

DR. B. J. KENDALL & Co., Gents:—In reply to your letter I will say that my experience with 'Kendall's Spavin Cure' has been very satisfactory indeed. Three or four years ago I procured a bottle of your agent, and with it, cured a horse of lameness caused by a spavin. Last season my horse became very lame and I turned him out for a tew weeks when he became better, but when I put him on the road he grew worse, when I discovered that a ringbone was forming, I procured a bottle of Kendell's Spavin Cure and with less than a bottle cured him so that he is not lame, neither can the bunch be found. Respectfully yours.

P. N. GRANGER.

Perseverance Will Tell.

STROUGHTON, MASS., March 16, 1880.

B. J. KENDALL & Co., Gents:—In justice to you and myself, I think I ought to let you know that I have removed two bone spavins with 'Kendall's Spavin Cure,' one very large one, don't know how long the spavin had been there. I have owned the horse eight months. It took me four months to take the large one off and two for the small one. I have used ten bottles. The horse is entirely well, not at all stiff, and no bunch to be seen or felt, This is a wonderful medicine. It is a new thing here, but if it does for all what it has done for me fts will be very great. me its will be very great. Respectfully yours,

CHAS. E. PARKER.

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE is sure in its effects, mild in its action as it does not blister, yet it is penetrating and powerful to reach a every deep seated pain or to remove any bony growth or other enlargement, such as spavins, splints, curbs, callous, sprains, swellings, any lameness and all enlargements of the joints or limbs, or rheumatism in man and for any purpose for which a liniment is used for man or beast. It is now known to be the best infiment for man ever used, acting mild and yet certain in its effects.

Send address for filestrated Circular which we think gives positive proof of its virtues. No remedy has ever met with such unqualified encress to our knowledge, for beast as well as man.

Price 11 per bottle, or six bottles for $5. ALL DRUGGISTS have it or can get it for you or it will be sent to any address on receipt of price by the proprietors. DR. B. J. KENDALL & CO. Enosburgh Falls, Vermont. j27d.
